MARIA PAULA ALZATE

Colombian plastic artist.

From the abstract, it gives meaning through the management of the color palette, lines and shapes. Constantly reflect on our roots, our childhood, the non-need for the perfect line and themes that unite us as humanity: the pandemic, the painful loss of two pregnancies, climate change, among others, reframing pain and giving way to new meanings.

JUAN CARLOS DELGADO

JUAN CARLOS DELGADO
(Bogotá, Colombia 1973)

Juan Carlos Delgado is a multidisciplinary artist who works installations and interventions in public spaces using photography, sculpture, or painting. His work as an artist is like a fragment of memory that stops in time; a buid dialogue between memory and forgetfulness that reveals part of his personal stories.

He has developed an interest in the dualism of life associated with a set of personal narratives that also intersects with the history of art and sacred literature. This Colombian artist began to use art as a creative tool, transcending the spiritual and taking it into a formalist language. During this process, he has sought to abandon objectivity and focus on abstraction.

He investigates the relationship between permanence and deconstruction, light and shadow, life and death, the earthly and the mystical.

Delgado uses diferent symbols that evoke the search for spirituality and the transformation of a human transit through life and repetition of forms.

Technically, he explores diferent ways of materializing his work, creating new possibilities to represent each idea, each project is unique and innovative. His work is seen as a resource for exploring a series of relationships between opposites.

RAMON LASERNA

RAMON LASERNA

He studied Industrial Design at the Universidad de los Andes in Bogotá, Colombia. His graphic exploration is very close to abstract movements and Latin American kinetic art. With his methodical line drawings he achieves a body of work of great diversity. Through small changes in the angle of planes, it produces visual phenomena of vibration, movement, or moiré within a refined formal style.

His experimentation revolves around the ideas of line, color and light, with these elements he produces ethereal and vibrant images that refer to the idea of interaction between abstraction and the elimination of geometric volume.
